1950 MARLINTONIAN

Published by the Senior Class

MARLINTON HIGH SCHOOL

Marlinton, W. Va.

Foreword

What do we remember in years long after?

The friends we've made, some tears, much laughter,
The courses so hard, the games lost and won,
The plays, the banquets, and loads of fun.

We here portray in a cursory way

Some glimpses of joy, elusive and gay.

We hope you'll find pleasure in many a look,
At the 1950 Marlintonian yearbook.

Dedication

We give our lives in search of Treasure
Of gold or silver, without measure;
Far richer gains in knowledge and learning
Are ours for the seeking, at every turning.

To guide us on this more serious quest
Are teachers who labor without rest.
To one of these, Miss Smith, our friend,
We dedicate this book, with affection no end.

Exploration Expedition

of THE CLASS OF 1950

One day in September 1946, we, the Seniors of 1950, started out to conquer a strange country about which other adventurers had brought back tales— Marlinton High School. Our crew elected Harper Callison, Captain; Ann Yeager, Co-Captain; and Dan Moore, Scribe. We took Carolyn Thomas and Peggy Zicknfoose along to entertain us and to raise our spirits if the going got tough. When we landed we found ourselves surrounded by a strange tribe who initiated us to their country in a strange manner peculiar to their tribe. But after this formal welcome, they entertained us well. Now that we had made our landing, we started our search for the fabulous treasure, the Tournament Cup.

Traveling inland, we came to the land of the Sophomores where we elected a red headed athlete, Junior Long, as our leader. Dale Curry was his Chief Lieutenant, and Ann Yeager became the Scribe. Gerald Gordon was put in charge of guarding the treasure. Carolyn Thomas and Harper Callison were elected to keep the band in spirits. A new expedition of treasure seekers entered Marlinton High this year, and it fell our lot to welcome them. We were zealous in protecting our hold upon this land and we did not want them to find our treasure, so we tried to dissuade them as best we could. Nevertheless, they proved themselves brave enough to stay, so we received them into Freshman Land. This year, as we neared the farthest boundaries of Sophomore Land, we were much elated over beating the other expeditions to the Tournament Cup, the fabulous treasure of our ardent search. Our joy was dampened when a strong and powerful warlord, Chief Yeager, told us that we could not keep this cup until we first proved ourselves worthy of it; we must defend our rights to this treasure through the jungle of knowledge in two more lands before we could keep this Treasure of All Treasures.

In Junior Land, we trudged on one six-weeks at a time through many different courses. By now, Junior Long was weary of the responsibilities of leadership (along with football) and we elected an experienced warrior, Clyde Buzzard, to lead the expedition. His lieutenant was Jimmy Moore, his Scribe was Sue Harper, and his treasure-keeper was Dan Moore. This year for a little variety, we had some Gypsies entertain us with a play, "Hobgoblin House," and later we had a very gala Fiesta to add to our treasure story. Chief Yeager once more presented us with the Tournament Cup for the brave showing which we had made in Junior Land. Another expedition ahead of us decided to abandon their exploration in Marlinton High for other countries, so we prepared a banquet in their honor before they left the land which we were beginning to hold as our beloved country.

Just as our hopes of completing the journey were beginning to run low, we entered upon the last phase of our search, the Land of Seniors. Worn by the trials endured on our search, we began to take on a more sober appearance, although we still had the same old foolishness and jollity underneath. (This fact was brought out when we ran across some pretty maids belonging to the savage tribe known as Faculty). Once more we chose a red headed athlete as our leader, Dan Moore, and for his assistant, Jim Moore. The Scribe was Harold Butcher and the Treasure-keeper was Junior Long. Our store of treasure has steadily increased, for we have been diligent in our search. As we near the end of our journey, we are presented the Tournament Cup which becomes our permanent possession. We have prepared a record of our achievements in the form of a yearbook, so that future expeditions may know of our arduous search and accomplishments. Now that we have completed our expedition, we realize that there is treasure in this land of much higher value than that of the cup—the treasure of learning, of character, and of friendship. As we leave the jungle of high school with all its exotic flowers of experience, we cast our eyes upon the Sea of the Future, upon which we hope to sail in our ship, "The Learned," to conquer new and greater lands.

Senior

We, the members of the Senior Class of nineteen hundred fifty, being of sound mind and realizing that our days in M. H. S. are growing short in number, do hereby make, publish and declare our Last Will and Testament:

I, HALE ALDERMAN, do hereby will to Norman Shaw my Casanova ways with the girls (and Teachers) in hopes he will get by with having as many on a string as I did.

I, HERBERT ARDELL, do hereby will to Jack Bear my shy ways and also my seat in the Thomas Grocery truck so he won't have an excuse for being late delivering his papers.

I, MAYONNA ASTIN, do hereby will to Evelyn Curry my real engagement ring so she won't turn her finger green by wearing twelve cent ones.

I, MARY ALYCE BEARD, do hereby will to Jane Ruckman my copy of the book, "Ten Ways to be Popular."

I, RICHARD BRIGHT, do hereby will to my brother, Robert, my good grades and ability to get along with the teachers.

I, BARBARA BURNS, do hereby will to Peggy Madison my true-blue loyalty to Raymond and hope that she will acquire this same trait.

I, CLYDE BUZZARD, do hereby will to Richard Byrd my ability to speak the Korean language for reasons not mentionable.

I, HAROLD BUTCHER, do hereby will my summer job at Watoga to Naomi Mace in hopes that she will get along with the Governor's nephew as well as well as I did with his daughter.

I, HARPER CALLISON, do hereby will my ability to operate a mimeograph to Eddie Linebaugh, since he has started to help with the paper.

I, BONNIE CARPENTER, do hereby will my strong voice to Betty Meeks saying, "She might as well have everything."

I, WANDA CLARK, do hereby will my long legs to Patsy Simmons so she will be able to see the games next year.

I, DALE CURRY, do hereby will to Bubbles Moore my gift of gab, since he has such a quiet nature and could use it.

I, ERNESTINE CUTLIP, do hereby will to "Deenie" and "Rorie" my place on the "Hot Seat" so they can fight over it.

I, FLOYD DAVIS, do hereby will my bookkeeping book to Robert Mace, and I surely hope he can get along with Miss Dilley.

I, EZRA DEAN, do hereby will myself to M. H. S.—the flag pole is wearing out, you know.

I, ROBERT DUMIRE, do hereby will my ringside seat in chemistry to anyone who has not seen Miss Moore take a fit of apoplexy.

I, EUGENE GOLFORD, do hereby will to Fred Johnson the authority to keep an eye on Marie Cross next year.

I, ROBERT GOLFORD, do hereby will to "Smokey" my honest ways.

I, WILMA GOLFORD, do hereby will my quietness and shyness to Glenna Jean Rhea.

I, GILDA GAY, do hereby will my long legs to any girl who thinks she can catch "Davey" Gibson.

I, GRACE GAY, do hereby will the honor of becoming captain of the basketball team to Thelma Burgess, hoping she will enjoy it as much as I did.

I, HAROLD GIBSON, do hereby will some of my height to Miss Moore so she will be able to get her cravers down from the loudspeaker next year when I am gone.

I, JOHNNY GIBSON, do hereby will my height to the basketball team, so they can tip them in next year.

I, GERALD GORDON, do hereby will my last quarter to a certain gang of girls to buy a pack of cigarettes so they will stop bumming me for smokes.

I, JEWELL HANNAH, do hereby will my glass to anyone who can afford a windshield wiper to keep them clean.

Wills

I, SUE HARPER, do hereby will my baby-sitting job to Ramona Wooddell so she will have something to do while Teddy is away.

I, EDDIE LIGHTNER, do hereby will to the boys in Smokology class all of my cigarette butts saying, "They're good to the last drag."

I, VIRGINIA LIPTRAP, do hereby will my love of mischief to Annabelle Crawford, in hopes that she will cheer things up next year.

I, NEAL LONG, do hereby will my place as treasurer of the Senior Class to Nancy Adkison with the admonition, "It's no snap, my dear!"

I, HERBERT MACE, do hereby will to Norman Shaw my motorcycle so that he can scare the girls to death.

I, JAMES MANN, do hereby will my typing desk to Bob Williams so that he can pester the person in front without being seen.

I, DAN MOORE, do hereby will my deck of cards to Jimmy Davis providing he will learn to beat Jane Ruckman at "Canasta" for me.

I, JIM MOORE, do hereby will my Tarzan physique to Basil Sharp so he can play football next year.

I, MISCAL MORRISON, do hereby will Pete's and my parking space in front of school to any girl who thinks she can get to class before the tardy bell rings.

I, EDWIN PENNYBACKER, do hereby will my nickname, "Sunshine," to Eddie Faulkner. He looks as if he needs a little sunshine in his life.

I, EUGENE PESCOLIDIO, do hereby will my accent to anyone who thinks he can take the kidding that I have about it.

I, ROBERT PYLES, do hereby will one of my "A's" to Herbert Morrison so he will know what it is like.

I, GORDON RICKETT, do hereby will to Eddie Lanchugh my ability to bark like a dog so that he can warn people when he is coming.

I, LUCY ROSE, do hereby will my reducing pills to Betty Meeks.

I, SHIRLEY SAGE, do hereby will my voice to the alto section of the chorus.

I, HELEN SHARP, do hereby will my record for excellent driving to Betsy Clark. Don't do anything to spoil this record, Betsy!

I, WADE SHARP, do hereby will to Bob Mace all the "lars" I had to do in football. I hope you have as much fun as I did. Ha-Ha!

I, CHARLES SHOWALTER, do hereby will all my love to Viola Beverage.

I, CAROLYN THOMAS, do hereby will my place as head cheerleader to Jackie Bear in hopes that he will keep up our winning streak for the tournament cheering trophy.

I, JOYCE THOMAS, do hereby will my ability as a chemist to the Atomic Energy Research.

I, MARY UNDERWOOD, do hereby will my pretty hair and my quiet ways to Glenn Jean Rhea.

I, NANCY UNDERWOOD, do hereby will to Brooks Mason my ability to look like an innocent angel in typing class.

I, QUENTIN UNDERWOOD, do hereby will my ability to keep out of trouble to Billy Jo Johnson.

I, DON VANREENAN, do hereby will my typing chair to Grey Jackson because it is the only one he can sit in and rest his feet on the floor.

I, ROY WARE, do hereby will my legs to any boy who will walk Nancy Pennybacker to her bus after school.

I, ANN YEAGER, do hereby will my place as A. D. D. treasurer to anyone who will be faithful and work as hard as I have.

—Carolyn Thomas.

Cloud Pictures

As I sit on my porch and gaze into the clouds, I can see many strange things in the Future.

I can see "Herbie" Ardell running the greatest super-market in the town of Marlinton. Yes, he has plenty of help. I can see Nancy Underwood as his cashier, pocketing all the "odd change." Dale Curry is his experienced meat cutter, and what an experience! I can also see Gerald Gordon as editor of a newspaper in Marlinton—it's the GORDON DAILY and he gives all the data on the bull games. I see Carolyn Thomas as superintendent of nurses and Harper Callison as head doctor at the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital. They seem to be performing an operation. I should have known—they are pickling Helen Sharp's brain in alcohol. Above the microscopic bottle is a sign, "The Smallest Organism Known." I can see Ann Yeager teaching home economics in M. H. S. What is that awful odor! No wonder the potatoes are burning, because "Davey" Gibson, who is teaching chemistry, has just walked into the kitchen and everything else is forgotten. Mescal Morrison is happily married and giving lessons to high school girls on "How to acquire a loving man." Jewell Hannah is proprietor of the Rexall Drug Store—she had plenty of experience.

This cloud begins to turn and now I see Ezra Dean as supervisor of Watoga State Park—he is sponsoring a new program, training wild animals. Richard Beverage is directing the training of "dear." I see Quentin Underwood running a night club, "The Mocombo of the Mountains," at the entrance of Watoga. There's Hale Alderman as the owner of a garage at Huntsville—he seems to have quite a business, and guess why? Roy Ware is his salesman; he always could talk! I can see Mary Underwood sitting at home waiting for a call to be a stenographer.

This cloud rolls by and another takes its place. There are Robert and Eugene Galford, owners of the biggest fish pond in the state located on Williams River. As the cloud dims a little I see Johnny Gibson and Charles Showalter as the greatest evangelists of their day—I always knew those boys were going to be fine citizens. Shirley Sage is quietly sitting at home, (with her hair rolled up), reading a book, just waiting for some man to propose. Eugene Pescosolido is still working on the R. R. (Right Road, that is) trying to reach his goal. Robert Dumire is in business giving lessons on "Your First Job"—the first one he had didn't work, so he was never able to get another one. Gordon Rickett is Laasie's stand-in in the movies—barking, of course.

This cloud has now parted to reveal Grace Gay, Wanda Clark, Bonnie Carpenter, and Gilda Gay playing basketball. The name of their team is "G. W. C. G." (Gee, What Cute Girls). Floyd Davis is driving the bus which takes the girls from place to place, and Jimmie Mann is their general manager.

The clouds are again rolling furiously and I see "Red" Long carrying the "pigskin" for the Coast Guard. We always knew that he was going places. I can also see Marvin Galford designing clothes in New York—the latest fashion is knee pants for men. Imagine that! Undoubtedly that is Herb Mace riding that motorcycle around the wall at the World's Fair. Betty Bright's latest invention is on display at the World's Fair, and Robert Pyle's famous paintings are creating quite a stir. Lucy Rose and Don VanReenan have a show of their own—the "World's Greatest and Smallest People." I see Eddie Lightner pitching for the Brooklyn Dodgers while Dan Moore is batting for the St. Louis Cardinals—both undefeated teams up to date. I can see Ernestine Cutlip squawking her head off for the Dodgers. As the clouds break up again, I see Mary Alyce Beard as the greatest music instructor of the day at W. V. U. I just know that her secretary is Sue Harper, now that she is such a success. Yes, there is Jim Moore coaching the W. V. U. team, and Clyde Buzzard is, most assuredly, their busy manager. Joyce Thomas is instructing in the commercial subjects at the university. It seems strange that so many classmates are together.

Turning my gaze a little, I see Virginia Liptrup as owner of the "Rat Shop," a restaurant at Elkins, and Mayonna Astin is there as a waitress. Now the clouds are changing and I see Wade Sharp down on a plantation in Virginia raising tobacco. He's always sure now of having a cigarette. I keep gazing and see Barbara Burns at the police station trying to find Raymond Junior. He's lost! It appears that Harold Butcher and Edwin Pennybacker have gone West to herd cattle and wait for the next discovery of gold. I can see Wilma Galford married and living on a ranch in California. Stylr Hively has taken a new position—Secretary of Defense.

Everything is growing black; it must be the effects of the brainstorm I just had, so I had better direct my gaze on new things before I lose my vision.

The 1950 New Conquistadores

by CALLISON

We are Conquistadores, We're Forward Faring
over the Knowledge Sea:

Gladly we'll conquer new lands as far as we can see:

Always we'll conquer whatever it is that we will ever try,

Always we'll cherish the name of Alma Mater
Marlinton Hi.

We'll fight with might
For right in sight,
Whatever the odds may be;

And on new lands
We'll take our stands,
And stretch up like a tree:

So, we, the Class of Fifty, will make new conquests o'er and o'er and o'er,

We, the Class of Fifty, the Nineteen-fifty
New Conquistadores.

Here Comes Charlie

Presented by THE JUNIOR CLASS February 23, 1950

Larry Elliott, a debonair, kindly young fellow, thinking he is becoming guardian of a small boy, is astonished to find he has taken a pretty and charming girl of seventeen to rear. Charlie is nicknamed "Charlie," hence the mistake. Larry is engaged to a spoiled and scheming society girl, Vivian Smythe-Kersey, and is further dominated by her disagreeable, arrogant aunt, Mrs. Farnham. Charlie arrives from Arkansas accompanied by Uncle Alleck Twigg.

This is a play with riotous laughter all the way through and ends with a surprising element

Three Girls and Jeffrey

Presented by THE SENIOR CLASS December 20, 1949

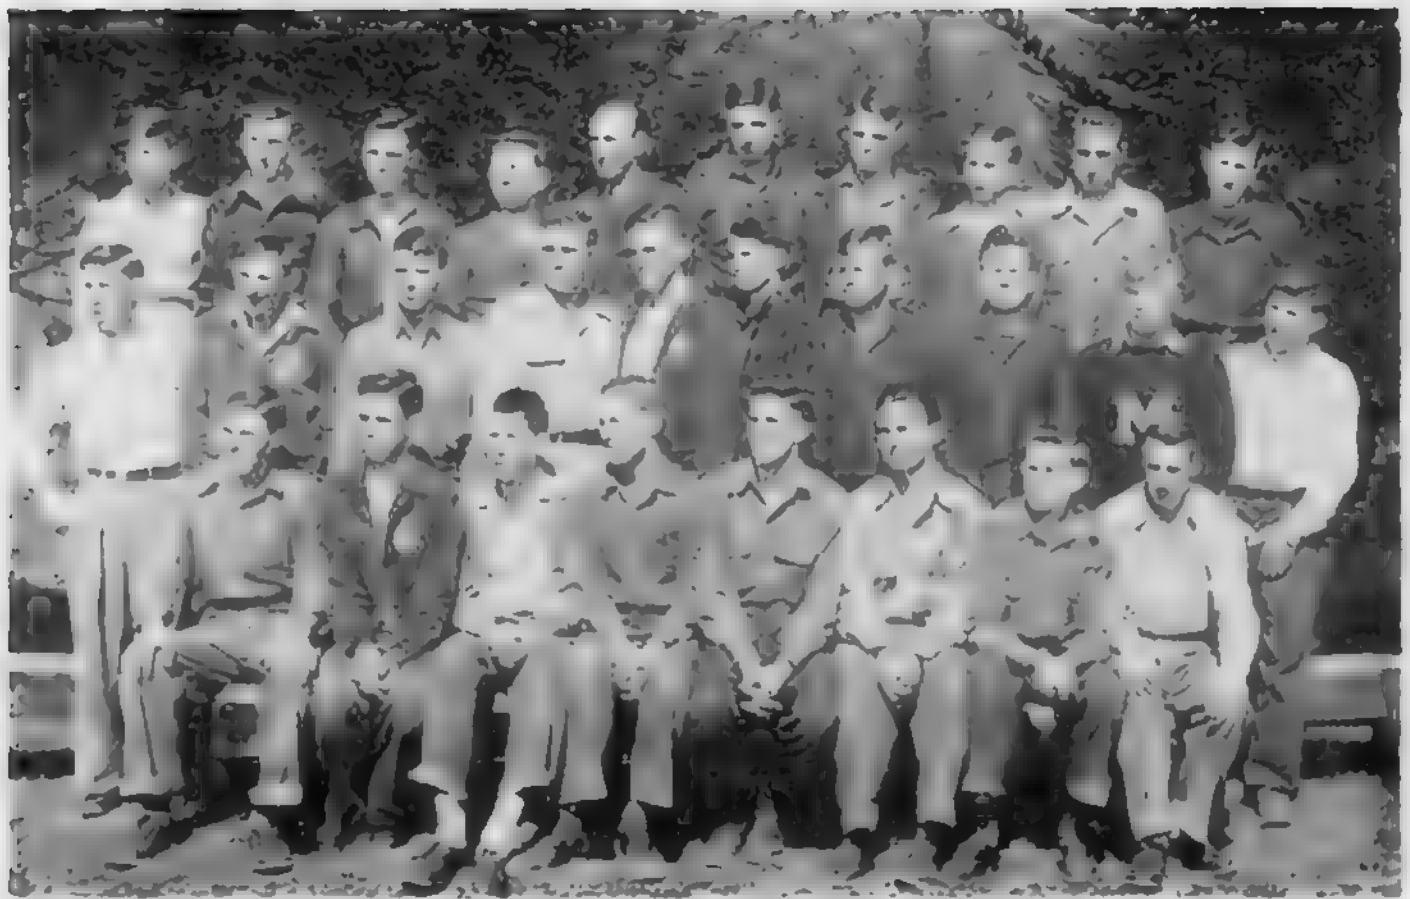

Jeffrey Dunsmore, a reasonable young bachelor, has inherited millions from the estate of his eccentric sister, but on condition that he continue all her philanthropies. This seems reasonable enough, until he learns that her Mexican lawyers are to administer this part of the estate, and they refuse to divulge any information concerning her many interests. But Jeffrey has not long to wait, for three girls from an elite boarding school, Greystone, arrive and announce that they have come to spend the summer with "Uncle Jeff," because they are now his wards. Jeffrey's fiancée arrives and resents the presence of the girls, but consents to chaperone them. The girls size him up as a fortune hunter, and proceed with plans to expose her and have Jeffrey fall in love with Miss Pomeroy, their beloved teacher. Their inventive genius is so sharp that Jeffrey thinks he is going mad and having hallucinations, for he sees six girls instead of three, and wounded aviators wandering about the place. Finally the girls prove their point about his fiancée, and they decide that they will have to accompany Jeffrey and Miss Pomeroy on their honeymoon to keep them from misfortune.

A. D. D's.

An organization of girls who have pledged the use of their spare time to help the Athletic Association. The "Dog House," is their chief project for raising the money which they use to serve food to visiting teams during basketball season. At the end of the year they entertain all those athletes who have earned letters. At games the girls have charge of the tickets, help with the advertising, and make themselves useful in many ways.
